[illegible] in Virginia, Oct. [illegible] We have been [illegible] of the country [illegible] heavy [illegible] about a fortnight ago, have oc- [illegible] known for many years, [illegible] damage has been done to [illegible] the water roſe to many places near 30 feet perpendicular, carrying a- way all the bridges, and many houſes.—Several gen- tlemen have ſuffered very conſiderably by the loſs of their tobacco-houſes, and other damage to their plan- tations.

[illegible] New-York, Oct. 21. On ſaturday laſt [illegible] Pennington ſail'd from this place, for England, on board of whom was the hon. Ed- ward Cornwallis, eſq;

On [illegible] laſt arrived here a ſchooner, which [illegible] and two Indian chiefs of a tribe [illegible] peace with this government; they [illegible] ſeveral times before the governor and coun- cil [illegible] of their conferences we have not [illegible] And yeſterday they ſail'd again, in order [illegible] more of their tribe to the conferences.

Williamsburgh, in Virginia, Oct. 20. In a letter from a gentleman in the back parts of the country, we have the following account, viz. "Several of the Indian traders are come in, who confirm the account [illegible] of the Indian war, with ſome additional circum- [illegible]. A party of French Indians, called [illegible] by ſome French, laid ſiege to the Twightwees town, when moſt of the fighting men were out a hunting, and ſcarce any body left but the women, old men, and a few traders, notwithſtanding which the [illegible] and killed 36 of the French [illegible] but were at laſt overpowered by numbers, [illegible] all who were ſo unfortunate as to fall into the ene- my's hands, put to death in a moſt cruel manner.— A- mong the reſt of the priſoners there was an old chief of the Twightwees, who from his great friendſhip to the Engliſh, was uſually called the Old Briton. Him and [illegible] of the Shawnoak tribe they eat.— They ripped up [illegible] of the white men's bellies, and eat their hearts and [illegible] with many other ſhocking acts of barbarity.— The ſix nations are ſo exaſperated with this inhuman treatment of their allies, that they and all the Ohio In- dians have declared war againſt the French, and laid themſelves under a ſolemn oath, to eat every Frenchman they can lay their hands on, and not to leave man, wo- man or child, of the Tawaw nation alive. The Twigh- twees have ſent to the weſtward to aſſemble their nume- rous tribes. Tomahawks and black wampum are conti- nually paſſing from one town to another, and nothing but [illegible] is to be heard of among the Indians."

[illegible] ſaturday laſt ar- [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] his ſeat at [illegible], where all the loyal healths were drank, under the diſcharge of cannon from the Ano- [illegible]-battery, and many of the ſhips in the harbour, which being near 100 ſail, with their colours diſ- played, &c. made a fine appearance. In the even- ing, there was a grand ball at the ſtate-houſe, at which were preſent upwards of 100 ladies, and a much great number of gentlemen, who formed the moſt brilliant aſſembly that had ever before been ſeen in this province. The whole company were elegant- ly entertained by his honour there at ſupper in the long gallery, and every thing conducted with the greateſt decorum, and to general ſatisfaction.

Boſton in New-England, Nov. 20. We hear from Norwalk in Connecticut, that a conſiderable ſhock of an earthquake was lately felt there.
